DRASTIC STEPS TO CURB AIR ASSAULTS

Government and Military Authorities Gravely Worried By Anglo-U. S. Protests

COMMANDER RECALLED

Nipponese Military Authorities Go Into Action to Punish The Guilty

TOKYO, Dec. 16.—(INS).—Japan's government and military authorities, gravely worried by stiff protests from London and Washington against attacks on British and American ships, today initiated drastic moves to put an end to such assaults.

International News Service learned on reliable authority that the commander of the air squadron which attacked the American gunboat Panay in the Yangtze River in China has been summarily ordered back to Tokyo—and that a court martial may shortly be opened.

The order instructing the Japanese air squadron commander back to Tokyo was not believed to refer to Rear-Admiral Teizo Mitsunami, chief of aerial operations in China. Identity of the squadron commander recalled was not immediately revealed.

Japanese authorities in Shanghai, however, were reported to have announced Rear-Admiral Mitsunami has been recalled to Tokyo and will be relieved of his post.

Six planes were involved in the attack on the Panay and three Standard-Vacuum Oil Company vessels, it was learned.

Nipponese military authorities went into action shortly after British Ambassador Sir Robert Craigie presented a note from the British Government to Japanese Foreign Minister Koki Hirota at 10:30 a. m., calling upon Japan to put an immediate and definite stop to armed Japanese attacks on British lives and interests in China.

The British note was presented to Japan on the heels of the strong United States note of protest insisting on full redress for Sunday's attack on the Panay and the three oil company vessels off Hoshien in the Yangtze River.

The British note, which followed the line taken by the American communication, informed Japan:

"These incidents clearly raise grave issues."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(INS).—The United States and Great Britain acting in concert, today brought powerful pressure to bear on Japan to halt violation of foreign rights in China.

The British Government, following the lead of America, lodged a stern protest with Nippon, demanding guarantees against further attacks on her nationals, property or rights in China.

While the United States fleet prepared for movement to the mid-Pacific for war games, in annual maneuver, Britain considered dispatch of part of its huge fleet to Far Eastern waters.

The immediate threat for Britain lay at Hong Kong as Japan prepared to launch an offensive against South China. This area has for many years been controlled commercially by the British.

In a bid for American co-operation in the Far East, Great Britain promised this government it would support fully any move in the Orient, International News Service learned.

The United States, however, has determined upon independent action, dependent upon events as they arise.

TO BUILD NEW THEATRE
AT DOYLESTOWN IN 1938

County Seat Will Then Have Two Houses, and Maybe Three

OTHER COUNTY NEWS

Things are happening in the moving picture world in Bucks County. In two of the largest boroughs in the county additional theatres are being built and others are being planned, according to announcements. Towns which have had but one theatre have broken away from control and there is to be competition, according to the latest developments.

Bristol, which for years has had but one theatre, is sure of having at least one additional one and perhaps two additional within the next year. The one being built on the site of the old Riverside Theatre is rapidly nearing completion.

Announcement has been made that William Goldman Theatres, Inc., owners of 14 theatres in Philadelphia and vicinity, has purchased the home of the Doylestown Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars on West Oakland avenue, and that a modern picture theatre will be erected on the site, starting April 1, 1938.

This means that, if present plans are carried out as announced more than two months ago, Doylestown will have two motion picture theatres, one the proposed County Theatre on the Bunting tract, West State street, and the other on West Oakland avenue.

Not only that, but it is possible, that a third theatre may be operated here. William Goldman Theatres, Inc., purchasers of the Vets' home, are owners of the present Strand Theatre Building which was purchased from Aqueduct Lodge of Odd Fellows about a year ago. Under the present set-up the Strand Theatre building, after the new owners take possession, cannot be used for a theatre until a certain time. When this time limit expires and William Goldman Theatres, Inc., takes possession, the building will be completely remodeled and made into a theatre of the very latest type.

In a statement issued by Post Commander Richard Murray, of the A. R. Arkison, Jr., Post No. 210, American Legion, of Doylestown, the World War veteran and new commander of the Doylestown Legionnaires asks all real Americans to buy American goods this Christmas season.

"Make sure that 'Made in the United States of America' appears on all gifts," Commander Murray said today. "Cheap Oriental toys painted with poisonous aniline dyes are plentiful in the stores today. All who wish to add a nicker or two to the Imperial Navy for the purchase of bombs, should buy the imported Oriental toys. Those who believe in buying at home should refuse to purchase the cheaper imported goods."

With an attendance of about 75 musicians, members of various county bands, the annual meeting of the Musicians' Union of America, Bucks County Local, No. 6, was held at Newtown, with Ralph K. Wasser, Doylestown, as the presiding officer.

The next meeting will be held on the second Tuesday in January at South Langhorne.

Election of officers resulted as follows: President, Ralph K. Wasser, Doylestown; vice-president, Wilson Doan, Langhorne; treasurer, George Murray, Glenside; financial secretary, Earl Selner, Jenkintown; recording secretary, Arthur Stevens, Doylestown; sergeant at arms, Harold Heilger, Doylestown; members of the executive committee: Samuel Carr, Doylestown; Victor Stanford, Buckingham Valley; Ernest Shade, South Langhorne; Irvin Kohl, Doylestown; auditors: Wilson Doan, Langhorne; Joseph Webster, Newtown, and Norman Selner, Doylestown; trustees: George P. Vearrindy, James Manor, Charles Blittie, South Langhorne; Samuel Veaceanna, South Langhorne; Michael Yeager, Feasterville, and Dr. Ralph C. Farquhar, Jr., Doylestown.

SANTA CLAUS HAVING BUSY AND POPULAR TIME
AT HIS HEADQUARTERS HERE; VISITED DAILY BY MANY YOUNGSTERS; HIS MAIL IS VERY HEAVY

Wants are Made Known and All Promise To Be Very Good Children

SOME ARE VERY TIMID

Some Little Tots Have To Be Coaxed To Speak To Kindly Old Fellow

Santa Claus is having an exceedingly busy and popular experience in Bristol. For his headquarters at 217 Mill street, secured for him by Mill Street Business Men's Association, are thronged with boys and girls during all of his business hours here.

Boys and girls, making the journey alone, others with smaller brothers or sisters in tow, and still others who keep a firm grasp on the hand of mother or father—all are visiting Santa and making known their wants.

They find the jolly old fellow most ready to please, he promising to bring all the toys possible, providing they are good children. Letters galore are being placed in the large mail box, which is located just alongside Santa's red throne, where he receives his small visitors. He gives a most attentive ear when the little folks make their way, some shyly and others bravely, to the dais at the end of the long room.

As the jolly old saint takes the hands of a boy or girl the tots seem to gain confidence, and gladly tell what they want for Christmas. Some who forget items during the first visit, have readily gone back to tell of the other gifts they desire, and many linger to hear the wants of their pals.

In an interview today with a Courier reporter, Santa Claus very willingly showed some of the letters he has received from his little friends in Bristol, and which he checks over daily, in order that he might have all in readiness for Christmas morn.

"Yes, it does keep me busy," he replied in answer to a query, "but I certainly do enjoy talking to all my little friends. And the letters they write to me asking for gifts, reveal that there are some fine scholars here in Bristol, and they all seem to be such good children. My little helpers up at the North Pole are working."

N. Y. COMPTROLLER-ELECT
ENJOYS HIS NEW FARM

Every Animal Has Pedigree, He Claims, But a Broken-Down Cow

LOCATED AT NEW HOPE

SOLEBURY, Dec. 16.—Pedigrees for every animal on the place, with the exception of a low-grade cow with one broken horn—that is as Dr. Joseph B. McGoldrick sizes up his recently purchased farm here, where he spends many pleasant hours between duties which keep the comptroller-elect of New York busy.

A visit this week to his farm, which is in process of general remodeling as far as the buildings are concerned, brought many a twinkle to the eye of "Farmer Joe" as he is known by his friends.

A friendly Southdown ram, Billy, craving attention, jumped upon the sturdy figure of Dr. McGoldrick. A Toulouse goose, with mischief in its eye, pursued him. Three Duroc pigs squealed and grunted pleas for him to scratch their itchy backs.

But Dr. McGoldrick had no time for individual pleasantries with his livestock. A Saturday night dinner in New York had shortened his usual week-end visit to the farm so that it was noon before he arrived to catch up on his animal husbandry. Five minutes later he had shed his urban overcoat for a rustic windbreaker, in which he bustled down to his weather-beaten barn to look over his livestock with no little pride.

"Just about everything here has a pedigree except the proprietor," Dr. McGoldrick chuckled. Just then, however, he came upon Betsy, the Guernsey cow, chewing her cud in the barnyard. She was fat and she looked contented, but she was a low-grade cow with one broken horn. "This poor cow," said the comptroller-to-be, "I bought her when they auctioned off the former owner's stuff on this place. She was going off at a very poor price to a butcher—so I up and bought her."

Although he purchased his farm only last April and has gone through a municipal campaign since then, while teaching Government at Columbia University, Dr. McGoldrick already is referred to as "Farmer Joe" by some of his friends hereabouts. Ultimately, he intends to concentrate on chickens, but just at present he is noted primarily for his ducks.

"My ducks won first prize at the Doylestown Fair last September," Mr. McGoldrick said, happily. "I bought 25 of them from a mail-order house."

INTEREST IS KEENER AS
HOLIDAY APPROACHES

Adults Who Aid Santa Find Great Help Given Through Local Business Men

SOME SHOPPING HINTS

By Xmas Gift Seeker

As the holiday season approaches the interest becomes keener. Keener for the adults who are great aides to Santa Claus, and keener for the tots who look forward throughout the year to the arrival of the patron saint of childhood.

With the questions of the Yuletide, and the great time occupied in preparation, Artesian Coal Company suggests that the householders let them aid in the rush of Christmas buying. "You can save time by referring your heating problem to us. We will take care of it with Lehigh Valley Anthracite, the coal that satisfies," is their answer. Have the house comfortably warm when you return from shopping is good advice.

Preparations for the feast are already in the making, with orders being placed for this food and that particular dish. Why not try ice cream this year for the dessert course? A large variety of flavors are to be had at O'Boyle's, Farragut avenue and Monroe street, where orders are now being taken for delivery at the Yuletide. Made fresh daily on the premises, O'Boyle's ice cream makes a delicious refreshment, or dessert for the dinner.

"The perfect gift for mother" is the manner in which Kalamazoo Stove & Furnace Company, 208 Mill street, speak of a Kalamazoo coal and gas combination range. The new 1938 models are already on display.

After the Christmas shopping has been cared for, after the rushing and bustle of the season is over, have the family car greased and washed at Wetherill's Service Station, Highway and Green Lane. Just telephone Bristol 863, and the car will be called for and delivered, bright and shining, and well greased. The holiday jaunts will be easier if the car is made safe for winter driving, and you will like the clean appearance after it is returned from Wetherill's.

LARGE GIFT STOCK

Straus Cut Rate Store, 407 Mill street, has one of the finest lots of Christmas gift suggestions in this vicinity. For every member of the family there is a wide variety from which to select. Shaving sets for father, brother, or sweetheart; cosmetics, perfumes, and toilet sets for the ladies; cigars and smoking articles; special gift packages of Christmas candies; cameras, salted nuts, and a hundred other excellent gifts are on display in this Mill street store.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Disappointment

WITH the ready acceptance by Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy of his appointment as Ambassador to Great Britain comes some disappointment. No one wants to disparage the services performed by Mr. Kennedy nor spoil his pleasure in the new field he is about to enter. None the less the conception of him as a citizen who, anxious only to help in a crisis, devotes his great abilities to salvaging the ship of state without desire for reward, is somewhat marred.

Discussion Period Is Much Enjoyed By P. T. A.

HULMEVILLE, Dec. 16.—A most interesting discussion featured a meeting of Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association in the school house last evening, this being led by Miss Dorothy Thuss, a member of the faculty of the school. This discussion group work, in charge of Mrs. Lynn Shatzer, is to occur at each meeting.

The subject about which the discussion revolved last night was "Home Work," with the amount deemed advisable for children of different ages; the co-operation with such on the part of the home; the type of home work which is correlated with studies; whether school requirements should be changed at times to suit home life. Many took part in the discussion, answering questions; following a brief talk on the subject by Miss Thuss. Members expressed the belief that such a number on the program each month will prove both beneficial and interesting.

Mrs. Edwin M. Lathrop, president, directed the business of the evening, with Mrs. Albert Wunsch giving minutes of the November meeting.

The date set for the carol service about a community Christmas tree to be placed on the school lawn, is Thursday, December 23rd, at eight o'clock. Santa Claus will be present, with a surprise for the children.

The ways and means committee is to meet at the home of Mrs. Lathrop in January, definite date to be announced. It was stated that a blanket had been purchased for the rest room. The association passed a motion to purchase sufficient paint to paint the cafeteria and the rest room; also to buy additional teaspoons and soup-spoons for use in the cafeteria.

War On Pneumonia

Harrisburg, Dec. 16.—Pennsylvania's drive against the ravages of pneumonia was formally launched today. The State Department of Health sent out to "distribution points" in 55 of the Commonwealth's 67 counties, more than $60,000 worth of serum to be distributed to needy suffering from pneumonia.

Dr. Edith MacBride-Dexter, State Health Secretary, said the serum is to be made available to the needy upon reports from the physician, stating that the patient's family is unable to pay for treatment.

A committee named by the Social Club, including Francis Lefferts, Frank Phillips and Herman Schmidt, has completed arrangements for Santa Claus' visit here.

Firemen Extinguish Flames
On Two Automobiles

Consolidated Fire Department was called out last night and again this morning to extinguish flames which threatened to destroy two automobiles.

At 6:30 last night the firemen were called to Pond and Walnut streets where they found a 1938 Buick abandoned. The car evidently had been driven at an excessive rate of speed and water and oil supply had become exhausted.

Bystanders said that the car containing three young men stopped at the traffic light. The car was overheated and there was an odor of burning paint. One of the trio was advised to call the firemen and he ran to the fire station. He failed to return to the car and his two companions walked away during the excitement.

Police took charge of the car which it was later found had been stolen from Philadelphia on Monday. At the time that the car was stolen it contained over $100 of merchandise. It is registered in the name of Fannie Tickner, 1809 N. Franklin street. The car is being held to await the arrival of the owner.

This morning at 6:15 firemen were called to Wood and Market streets, where a car owned by a Mr. Kline, colored, Wood street, caught fire as it was being backed out of the garage. The damage was slight.

Saturational Feast Takes Place With 58 Attending

Following some customs of ancient Romans, and using scrolls for menus which noted in Latin the foods served, 58 members and guests of the Latin Club of Bristol High School observed their third annual Saturational Feast, in the high school auditorium, last evening.

The feast served at 6:30 was attended by the Latin Club members and the following guests: Advisor of the group, John C. Snyder, and Mrs. Snyder; Peter Peters, the only past president of the Latin Club, who served in that capacity for two years.

The committees in charge of arrangements were headed by Miss Jean Roberts, general chairman.

Only Latin names appeared on the scroll menus for the foods served, the menu including: Tuna fish on lettuce, creamed chicken, bread, lima beans, peas, beets, fruit cup, ice cream, nuts, grape juice.

Two cartoon motion pictures were shown after the banquet; Arthur Brooks pleased with works of magic, and games and dancing followed.

LEVIATHAN'S END

The name of Basil Harris, an unfamiliar one to the millions of Americans for whom celebrities are made by way of the newspapers and the radio, appeared in two front page stories recently. In one it was revealed that it was he who was the first to greet the Lindberghs when they reached Quarantine unheralded after an absence of two years; he knew they were aboard ship and he kept his secret. And in another article Basil Harris is mentioned as the safe repository of another secret, the negotiations for the sale of the unhappy Leviathan, once mistress of the seas, a deal which has been completed and may now be told.

In the telling, Mr. Harris acquiesces well himself and his company. Americans who have been solicitous about the last days of the doomed old liner will rest satisfied to know that, since she must go to the scrap heap, she was not knocked down coldly and cruelly, but was assigned to a wrecker who will be kind to the remains. It is good to know that the giant which carried thousands of American soldiers to France will not be made to carry Japanese troops to China; nor will she be made over into Japanese guns or shells to pour death into an invaded nation. Money consideration was forgotten when the Japanese bid, one of seven, was not considered, let alone accepted.

Mr. Harris said conversation with Japanese interests did not reach the point of price dickering because "we rejected any offer they might make without a hearing." Officials of the United States Lines, he said, "were afraid of any deal with Japan," in view of the present international situation. A German and an Italian firm were among those in the bidding.

SCIENCE IS ROMANCING

Scientists are our greatest romancers. Given an imagination and so wide a field, there is no limit to what they can produce.

Consider the view of Dr. W. W. Watts, British geologist, that South Africa, South America and Australia were at one time parts of a great continent close to the South Pole. Chief evidence of the southern continent was scratches of glacial drift over rocks in these parts of the southern hemisphere and glacial deposits of gravel. He said that some geologists believe that the glacial lands once formed part of a single land mass. This mass floated like a raft across the South Pole regions.

Dr. Watts explained that this theory fitted in with the hypothesis of continental drift advanced by the German scientist, Alfred Wegener. Under this theory, the present regions of South Africa, southern South America, Madagascar, Australia, New Zealand and Antarctica broke apart and floated away from each other over the earth's crust like icebergs in the ocean.

We do not understand that this is a strictly new conception of conditions in the early days of the earth's history, and we simply note that Dr. Watts believes he has scientific evidence—whatever that may be—of his conclusions.

But you never saw old folks who were in the way if they still had some property to divide.

Another good way to use leftovers is to place them in a shallow dish and say, "Here, Fido."

avert the crash—then we find that Mr. Kennedy has gone to Palm Beach for Christmas, which is, of course, all right, and after Christmas is going to England for the next three years, which is all right too, but it does rather muss up the picture. It develops that actually while he was lambasting business men for not "coming down to Washington" and there taking their share of "babe" (though if he ever got any abuse no one can recall it)—at that very time he knew he was slated for the softest and most socially desirable of all diplomatic posts. Certainly no one can object to his grasping this honor if he covets it, but it does detract from the force of his arraignment of those who retain doubt concerning the sincerity of Mr. Roosevelt and are not in Washington helping to ward off the "national economic disaster."

NOR CAN IT be maintained that Mr. Kennedy has been drafted for this high ambassadorial place; that it has been forced upon him, or that there exists an emergency which compels him to leave Washington, where our domestic difficulties multiply and the need of the President for wise counsel and disinterested friends is very great. Indeed, it is equally impossible, though the effort is made, to sustain any theory of the vital importance of his new post. It flatters, it is true, but that is all. There is a dignified position to maintain, speeches to be made, entertaining to do and many routine duties. But there really are no great problems to be solved. Mr. Hull has already laid the foundations for his reciprocal treaty with Great Britain, and when there arise real questions of international agreements on currency, debts or co-operative action, this Administration sends to the scene its specially trained and widely experienced Ambassador-at-Large, Mr. Norman Davis. In these days of the transatlantic telephone, ambassadors are little more than glorified messenger boys, and the only way you can make a bad Ambassador is by making an ass of yourself.

IF TWO WEEKS ago anyone had suggested that Mr. Kennedy wanted an ambassadorship, his friends would have howled in derision. The Secretary of the Treasury, yes; but an ambassador—don't be foolish. It shows you never can tell. How is he going to make his "contribution" over there? Of what use is his great influence with Mr. Roosevelt 3,000 miles away? Who is going to check the Corcorans and the Cohens, block the anti-capitalistic conspirators and retard our progress toward inflation? No one has seen the New Deal dangers more clearly than Mr. Kennedy, and no one, to use his own eloquent words, has "bellyached" privately more strongly about them than he—a fact which Mr. Kennedy will hardly deny. Should he do so there would be great astonishment among some of his dearest friends.

HIS WITHDRAWAL from the domestic scene is a great loss. It takes out of the Presidential "inner circle" the best conservative influence, the one really able man, capable of forcible presentation of the hard economic facts to his too impulsive Chief. He ought to be Secretary of the Treasury. He has done two good jobs in Washington and his qualifications for the Treasury post are conceded. He is wasted as an ambassador because as such he will have nothing to do commensurate with his energy and ability. Of course, he is entitled to the place. First and last, he has given a lot of money to the Roosevelt cause. He was one of four to put up $10,000 each in 1931, which enabled Mr. Farley to go over the country bagging delegates. He contributed heavily in 1932 and even more heavily in 1936. In addition, he has loaned the Democratic Committee a considerable sum. There is no question about his rating the job. Nor is there any doubt that he will make a popular and adequate ambassador. The surprise is that under existing circumstances and in the light of his most recent public utterances he should want to be one or think that he can continue making his "contribution" by such remote control.

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD—Unless she calls the cops, Marjorie Gatenon doesn't know how to get rid of an annoyance who sets a new high in eccentricity. The fellow first approached the actress at a theater, introduced himself and said that they were old acquaintances from Europe. Knowing it wasn't so, Marjorie let it pass.

Then she began hearing reports of the stranger telling people he was her fiancé. The topper came the other night when the fellow entered Clara Bow's "It" cafe and told waiters he was expecting Miss Gatenon to join him. He was wearing lace cuffs and a lace jabot of the kind men used to affect in the silk pants era.

Wasn't able to confirm this, but a friend of Rudy Vallee's says the crooner on his recent trip here ordered a beautiful monument erected at the grave of the late Pay Webb. And frequently visited the Santa Monica cemetery where she is buried.

While in New York, (she sails there late this month), Eleanor Powell hopes to market the song, "Chuckaboom", which she co-authored with her M. G. M. pianist, Chris Schoenberg. It's a hot number based on the primitive rhythm known to drummers as "chuckaboom". The star contributed the lyrics, Schoenberg the melody. Bill Robinson has asked permission to introduce the number on Broadway.

Kay Francis, who often goes in for snooty roles on the screen, couldn't tell the driver of a moving van how to find her new place in Coldwater canyon, so she volunteered to climb up in the truck and to act as a personal guide. And was the star's face red when she got mixed up and couldn't find the house herself? The driver had to cruise around until she recognized a landmark.

Hollywood's most crowded garage belongs to Wallace Beery. In addition to two cars and a hunting trailer, it also contains a candid camera laboratory, a gun room, an office and the star's fan gift collection. Servants have strict orders not to touch anything except the cars.

One of the crew on Gene Autry's picture thinks the western star is due a mention for his generosity. Out at Republic the workers are eligible for a Christmas bonus only if they work at the studio during the month of December. Autry's picture was supposed to go into production Jan. 5. But, to put the crew in line for the bonus, he agreed to do the picture this month, although it meant giving up a trip to Washington as the guest of Oklahoma Congressman Jack Nicholls.

Bette Davis, Harmon O. Nelson, Jane Bryan and Phil Kellog trekked out of Hollywood on a quail hunt. They ran Bette's new car into a ditch breaking both fenders, then got stuck in a mud hole from where a farmer had to drag them out with a team of horses.

The expedition wound up by costing about $250 and the party got one quail.

Quickies. . . For good luck, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., started work in the Irene Dunne picture, "Joy of Loving", on his birthday, Dec. 9. . . Incidentally, Fairbanks more has postponed his departure for England. April is the new date. . . The match-makers have an eagle eye on Betty Warner (Harry's daughter) and Milton Sperling, the author. . . Diana Gibson and Gordon Oliver had that serious look the other night at the Swing club. . . And Marjorie Ray's pals tell you that her real interest is the medico who escorted her to the Biltmore Bowl on movie night—D. R. Harold Wiggins, a resident physician at Cedars of Lebanon. . . Will Morrissey drops a line to say he is heading for Portland and Tacoma to see about staging an exposition to run concurrently with the San Francisco fair. . . And Marjorie Weaver, whom Twentieth Century-Fox hopes to make a star if she can keep out of accidents, has had another mishap. She tried to light a water heater after the pilot had burned out. Accumulated gas exploded and singed all the hair off her arms, some off her head.

McGoldrick advanced toward the k of Pekin ducks he had reared so fully but they scuttled away as as they could. Then he clambered into a couple of box stalls where had patted his two horses, Ace and Deuce, who seemed glad to see master back from the city. A cocker spaniel, and Spud, an English setter, followed him wherever he went.

I've got about 32 acres and 16 ches here," Dr. McGoldrick said. "perch is a rod, or something like t," he explained. "I've given up dogizing for the house. I simply can't gotten around to doing what just with it yet. I've got to go slow this, you know, because I'm not a y rich man."

MILL ST. BOYS WIN COURT TILT AT WEST CHESTER

In the curtain raiser of their current basketball season, the Mill Street Boys invaded West Chester during an exciting court battle when the Knights of Columbus dropped the decision to the Mill Streeters to the tune of 35-20.

Starting a team which ranged well around the six-foot average, the Knights stole an early lead, but this margin melted away as the sharp-shooting Business Men's quintet found the net. The lead interchanged several times, yet as the half mark finished, the K. of C. still seemed to have the upper hand with a five-point advantage.

In the second half, however, the Mill Street's ace forward cut loose with a barrage of long tosses, and the lead once again went to the visitors but this time to stay for the rest of the fray.

The Orazi-men of Bristol, led by Bill Mignoni, star forward, and big Buck Profy, converted accurate passes into pay-off shots. Again and again, Mignoni followed his team-mates' flips, recovered the leather on the rebound and invariably dropped it—where it belonged—in the basket. Mignoni's all-around ability and Profy's deadly accuracy, both from the pivot and the 15-foot mark, were responsible for their 13 and 12 points respectively.

After the tilt was over and the local boys had returned home, Dick Snockey, prominent clothing dealer of Trenton, invited the boys for a luncheon to celebrate the Mill Street Boys Club's first victory.

The next batch of these masculine marvels will take place next Tuesday night at the Germantown Boys Club, at Philadelphia.

After Net Grand Slam

By BURNLEY

From far-off Australia, on the other rim of the sphere, come rumblings of Don Budge's tennis thunderbolts.

The all-conquering Thor of the courts, who wields the heaviest and most potent racket in tennis, is now unleashing his cannonballs in quest of the Anzac title.

None of Donald's great predecessors on the tennis throne ever rolled up a season's record to compare with his.

California's Red Roubert started off the campaign by making a clean sweep of the Wimbledon titles, copying the singles, doubles and mixed doubles. He then went through the entire Davis Cup series without a defeat, returning the cup to Uncle Sam practically single-handed, as he competed in both singles and doubles.

Don's triumph in the U. S. nationals at Forest Hills was his next major victory. Now the Australian netmen are attempting to spoil his bid for a net grand slam.

Neither Tilden, Perry, Vines, Cochet nor any of the modern net immortals ever captured the three major net crowns in one campaign. Wimbledon, United States and Australian championships—these make up the triple crown of tennis, and it looks as if Budge will wear it.

KOVERLY PINS RUSSELL IN WILD BOUT AT ARENA

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 16.—In one of the wildest bouts seen at the local Arena in many a moon, George "Cry-baby" Koverly, Hollywood howitzer, defeated Rebel Rob Russell, belligerent Southerner, in 21 minutes and 54 seconds.

Koverly had the better of the exchange from the start, bringing his taped wrist into play as a means of torture on the cowering Southerner. Russell complained to Referee T. Parsonett to remove the tape, but the referee only warned George to desist from this means of torture. However, the Hollywood badman continued to massage Russell's eyes until Rob became angered and flayed Koverly with an assortment of forearm blows that had the latter gasping for breath. The bout wore on in this see-saw fashion with both wrestlers absorbing considerable punishment. When it appeared just a question of time till one or the other grappler would wilt from the blistering pace, Koverly pounced on the ankered Russell in the centre of the ring for the fall.

Cliff Olson, madcap Swede, put the gallery in the proper frame of mind to witness the wind-up. Cliff, noted far and wide as one of the best crowd baiters in the business, staged an exhibition last night that brought the fans to their feet howling. Olson treated Nick Campofreda, of Baltimore, to more abuse in the semi-windup than most grapplers receive in a score of bouts. Cliff was in rare form last night, and took great delight in taunting the gallery with his bag of tricks. The bout ended in a draw and both grapplers made a hasty exit with Campofreda chasing Olson to the dressing rooms.

Carol "Frenchy" LaRue returned to the local mat as a villain last night and engaged Nick Elitch, of Miami, in a wild tussle for 19 minutes. LaRue finally won the bout with a body press. Mayes McLean and Mike Mazurki staged a 30-minute draw in the second bout that brought the crowd to its feet, applauding. George Kondylas took nine minutes and 27 seconds to dispose of Firpo Wilcox in the opener.

"RECS" HAND SKATERS FROM PHILA. A DEFEAT

On Sunday night at the Bristol Recreation Center, Bristol Roller Hockey team handed the Philadelphia Quakers a defeat, 9-5, Bristol being the under dogs until the last period when they made a six-point rally.

The game was only one minute underway when Haig, of the Quakers, beat the hometowners goal to the ball. Leeper followed up with one for the Recs. The Quakers scored two more this period off the sticks of Rawlinson and Becker, with Higgins scoring one more for the hometowners.

In the second period Rawlinson and Haig tallied for the Phillies and George Ritter for Bristol. This period came to an end with the Philadelphia boys leading the game, five, Bristol three. It was in the last period that the Recs came to life, scoring six points while the defence men did a good job of shutting the visitors out. In this period, Sam Leeper scored two. Mush Higgins two, and the two Ritter boys one apiece. Rabbit Remer, Bill Ritter, Nelson Campbell and Wayne Mulholland shared the defensive honors.

TIMELY

You Will Want to Try!

Peppermint Drops

Two cups sugar; one-half cup cold water; one-half teaspoon cream of tartar; pinch of salt; one teaspoon oil of peppermint.

Boil sugar, water, salt and cream of tartar for ten minutes. Take from fire and beat until creamy, adding the peppermint after mixture has cooled a little. Drop by spoonfuls on wax paper. These may be dipped in chocolate, if you are an expert.

Raisin Cream Fudge

Two cups sugar; two-thirds cup light cream; one teaspoon vanilla; one tablespoon butter; one-half cup seedless raisins.

Put sugar and cream in a saucepan and cook slowly until sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking without stirring until a soft ball is formed when tried in cold water, 234-240 degrees. Add butter and when cool, add vanilla and beat until creamy. Add raisins and pour into buttered pan. Cut into squares when firm.

Peanut Butter Creams

One cup peanut butter; one-half cup sweetened condensed milk; one-fourth cup confectioners' sugar; one cup coarsely chopped nuts.

Mix all the ingredients thoroughly and shape into patties. Chill for at least two hours. This makes about 2½ dozen patties.

HELPFUL HINTS

New Use For Eels

A unique new industry is being started along the Great Barrier Reef, Queensland, near Sydney, Australia. This is fishing for the reef eels. Abounding in this section, they will be sought solely for their hides, which will be used to help out the wardrobes of women.

Now diners who spurn the suggestion of broiled, baked or fried eel, may unknowingly wear said fish. Extensive researches by the Australian government have proved that the skins of reef eels can be made into a soft and extremely durable leather and factories are being established to manufacture them into women's shoes.

Cranberry-Orange Relish

Combinations of raw ground cranberries, with celery, oranges, or finely cut young cabbage are being favored to offset the richness of a dinner with roast meat or fowl. With sliced cold meat, the relish also is appetizing. Put one pound of washed cranberries through the meat grinder. Pare two oranges with a sharp knife, discard the white membrane and put pulp and pulp, after removing seeds, through the grinder. Combine with the berries and mix in two cups of powdered or granulated sugar. Celery may be added. This should stand several hours before serving. For future use, the relish may be put into sterilized glasses and covered with paraffin. The quantity of sugar may be increased for families who object to tart food.

Veal Needs Help

Veal, apparently the least liked of meats in the average household, will tempt most people if it is browned in plenty of fat and then supplemented by the right seasonings.

Hungarian veal paprika is popular with most Americans. For this, the meat is browned in butter, seasoned with onion, paprika, pepper, tomato sauce and sour cream. Steamed rice is a good accompaniment of veal with brown gravy. A chicken-like flavor is contributed by stirring the flour used for the gravy thickening with cream, instead of water.

Ever make a seascape in sugar? Or a portrait in cocoa? Expert chefs even made landscapes in sugar and other food products at the sixty-ninth annual Salon of Culinary Art, sponsored by the Societe Culinaire Philanthropique in the Grand Central Palace, New York City.

Too much turkey? Even that is possible, said a taste tester for the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in Washington. Six volunteers declared it was impossible to relax and enjoy a free meal when they had to pass judgment on aroma, texture, flavor of fat, flavor of lean, tenderness, quantity of juice and general conclusions—in such degrees as desirable, neutral, tough, pronounced, coarse, fine, good and poor.

Butter prices in most New York State cities have been running eight cents higher than last year, because of curtailed receipts. Storage holdings in New York are estimated at 7½ million pounds less than at this period in 1936.

REVOLUTIONARY GLASS WALLS DEVELOP REAL "OPEN HOUSE"

The phrase "Open House" is gradually taking on more significance than hospitality.

Revolutionary new developments in structural glass are opening up wall areas in homes, so that walls no longer are considered as solid, impenetrable barriers to light. The structural glass is being produced in the form of insulux glass blocks, making it possible to have "Open House" every day in the year, in the form of glass block walls.

The glass blocks are translucent, not transparent, so that their use retains perfect privacy, ushering in the outside—yet without the outsiders looking in. The locks are being developed in a variety of interesting patterns.

The combined possibilities of more light and new decorative effects are prompting architects to study these daylighted dwellings, which promise real adventure in home designing.

Although artists and writers were among the first to use glass block walls for practical studio purposes, the idea of replacing a solid wall with natural light in dinettes, dark kitchens, the bath and the living room is appealing to homemakers. The clever home decorator can vision glass shelving and unique arrangements of flowering plants and bric-a-brac, merely by anchoring the glass shelving to the mortar bond between the glass blocks. Glass blocks also are being used as inside partitions between the dining room and kitchen in some new homes, to "borrow" light. Needless to say, such partitions would be easy to keep clean.

That warning about not throwing stones may have to be revived, if people begin to live in glass houses.
